

RACI Definitions + Matrix Template

Day 1 · Activity 3 handout. Assign each stakeholder a role for the five most consequential decisions on your feature. The discipline: exactly one A per decision.

The four letters

Letter	Role	Definition
R	Responsible	Does the work. There can be many R's.
A	Accountable	Owns the outcome. Exactly one person per decision.
C	Consulted	Two-way conversation; opinion sought before the call.
I	Informed	One-way notification; outcome shared after the call.

The core discipline: one A per decision. If two people are A, neither is. If no one is A, the decision will rot.

The five decisions to assign

For most features, RACI these five:

1. Scope — what's in vs out
2. Architecture — TCD Section 1 stance + key trade-offs
3. SLO targets — TCD Section 4
4. Launch date — when it ships
5. Out-of-scope follow-up backlog — deferred items + owners

Matrix template

Fill one row per decision. Multiple R / C / I are fine; one A only.

Decision	R	A	C	I
Scope
Architecture
SL0 targets
Launch date
OOS backlog ownership

Worked example — FieldPulse "End-of-Day Reconcile"

Decision	R	A	C
I
Scope	TPM (you)	PM Director	Eng Lead,
Architect, Customer Success	Sales, Support
Architecture	Architect	Eng Director	TPM, Security,
Platform	All eng
SL0 targets	Eng Lead	TPM	SREs, Customer
Success	Eng Director
Launch date	TPM	PM Director	Eng Lead, Customer
Success, Marketing	All eng, Sales
OOS backlog ownership	TPM	TPM	Eng Lead
Backlog readers

Four checks before you're done

1. No two A's — walk every column; verify exactly one A per decision.
2. Is the A actually empowered? — for each A, confirm they have the authority (formal + informal) to make the call. Many nominal A's are rubber stamps; the real A is upstream.
3. Anyone surprised to be an I? — a stakeholder often gets I when they think they're C. Surface it and decide.
4. "We're all R" is a smell — it usually means responsibility is unclear. Push for specificity.

Common error: the TPM writing "I'll be A" on architecture. TPMs are usually C on architecture, with the Architect as R and the Eng Director as A.